Urban Symbiotics

We are Urban Symbiotics, a community engagement company commissioned by Linkcity to work with the local community on the Tustin Estate. Thank you to everyone who attended the 'Tell Us Your Thoughts!' event in January!

We asked you how we can 'Make the resident drop-ins a place for the community, where activities are designed by the community!'

You told us that you would like the upcoming Tustin Estate sessions to focus on future plans for Tustin, community building, and educational enrichment across different generations. Key suggestions included hosting cultural events, providing computer and safety training, and creating youth-centric spaces and services. Additionally, you proposed enhancements to local infrastructure, such as co-designed improvements to estate entrances and open spaces, as well as regular updates on housing and community development, including access to repairs. The overarching message was that drop-ins should help foster a more connected, safe, and vibrant Tustin Estate community.

We look forward to updating you about the next drop-ins, so look out for a pink flyer through your letter box.

We look forward to seeing you on Thursday 29th February 2024, the last Thursday of this month.

Maternity Commission.

Women from black ethnic groups are four times more likely to die in pregnancy than those from white groups, and women from Asian ethnic backgrounds almost twice as likely.

This startling statistic from a 2023 national report has prompted Southwark Council to establish a maternity commission to explore and highlight the extent of these issues in south London.

The Commission will capture local experiences of women and add qualitative research to supplement national statistics.

Southwark is one of the most diverse boroughs in the country, with 40 per cent of its population born outside the UK.

The Commission will facilitate a series of panel meetings, face-to-face listening exercises and online options to share experiences of maternity care. It aims to raise awareness about having a safe pregnancy and birth and improve services to reduce inequalities in maternal outcomes.

The panel, chaired by Councillor Akoto, Cabinet Member for Health and Wellbeing, and co-chaired by Professor Dame Donna Kinnair.

Cold Calling/Door Scams

How to stay safe

Doorstep scams happen when someone comes to your door and tries to scam you out of your money or gain access to your home. They can take the form of door-to-door sales, someone pretending to be a trader, charity collector, or even pretending to be an operative claiming they are part of the regeneration works that is taking place in the estate. Doorstep scammers aren't always pushy and persuasive, and may even seem polite or friendly, but that doesn't always mean you can trust them.

Our general advice around these callers is:

1. Not to answer the door unless you know who it is.
2. Stop and think: Have they made an appointment with you? No one should turn up to your home without a pre-arranged appointment.
3. Don't buy any goods or services at the door or allow them in without checking their ID and if necessary confirming with Bouygues's site office or LBS if they claim that the work for these organisations.
4. Never give anyone your personal information – in particular bank details – in person or on the phone.”
5. Are they actually who they say they are? It's okay to close the door. Only criminals or fraudsters will try to rush or panic you.
6. Call the police if you feel scared or threatened.
